updating said gaze data such that gaze data for pairs of different classifications identified by data stored in said classification store identify gaze locations which are closer together and gaze data for pairs of different classifications not identified by data stored in said classification store identify gaze locations which are further apart".

Independent claims 41 and 43 identify a uniquely distinct feature "updating said association data such that association data for pairs of different classifications identified by stored pair data identify viewing directions which are closer together and association data for pairs of different classifications not identified by stored pair data identify viewing directions which are further apart".

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Durnell (Patent Application # 20040196433).
